HOUSE INN

The Oxford House Inn, a Maine Bed & Breakfast and Country Inn, offers visitors to the Mount Washington Valley and Maine's Western Lakes Region 4 beautifully appointed guest rooms and a 50 seat gourmet restaurant. The Inn, owned by Culinary Institute of America Graduate Jonathan Spak and his wife Natalie, has long been revered as a dining destination for those near and far as well as a place for locals to stop by for a quick bite in Jonathan's downstairs at The Oxford House Inn.

Built in 1913 by renowned architect John Calvin Stevens, its Mission-style architecture using natural wood and simple lines are the perfect canvas for their creations featuring Maine Seafood, Natural Meats and local and organic produce when available. With stunning sunset views framed by the White Mountains and professional courteous service, The Oxford House Inn promises to be unforgettable.

Dining at the OHI is truly a memorable experience. Culinary Institute of America graduate Chef/Owner Jonathan Spak crafts his seasonally changing menus to showcase the best that local farms have to offer, including fresh Maine seafood, local grain fed beef and fruits & vegetables grown just steps from the kitchen door.

While overall his style is considered contemporary American cuisine, influences and techniques from Asia, Southwestern United States and France are often incorporated.
